

Remarks of Nguyen Anh Tuan to receive VTV Person of the Year 2018.

I am very honored to receive the VTV Person of the Year 2018.

The award reflects the high values and aspirations of the Boston Global Forum (BGF) and of my dear friends and colleagues, including Governor Michael Dukakis and Professors Thomas Patterson, Nazli Choucri, and David Silbersweig.

I remember my first days in Boston and the warm friendship of Tom, a kind and special friend. I remember remarkable days with Governor Dukakis, my dear leader.

I highly appreciate the Shorenstein Center, which is the place where the Boston Global Forum was conceived, and which has supported many of BGF's activities.

I also want to give my deep thanks to my friends here who have supported me during BGF's six years.

And I appreciate and miss my colleagues at VietNamNet. They have continued to support and help me.

Finally I want to thank VTV for this recognition and honor. I am deeply grateful.

I believe deeply that our AI World Society (AIWS) initiative will contribute to a more prosperous and safe world. AIWS ethics and standards can guide the development of AI, and serve to underpin AI-Government, which can bring us an unprecedented era of government responsiveness and accountability.

Our AI World Society is a model for the future, one marked by greater transparency and a deeper commitment to our common values. BGF will work with its associates to ensure the realization of this vision. AIWS is a concept, and undertaking, that is worthy of our efforts and, indeed, worthy of pursuit by socially minded individuals everywhere.

It is in that spirit that I humbly express my gratitude to VTV for this award, and to the many in this room and elsewhere who provided the support and inspiration that made it possible.

Thank you.
